Lane: Amazon ... The silver in the name comes from the guard hairs, which are silvery white. Some Silver Fawns are a softer orange, quite often these have Mink in them as well which pales the colour - this is the preferred shade in the US, where the colour is standardised as amber. It's also possible to make a colour similar to Silver Fawn by combining red eye dilute with American Mink. The colour can look quite similar, albeit less bright, but the eyes are often a darker red than you'd see in a true ... Silver fawn « Hawthorn Rat Varieties Fawn Nearly two-thirds of all Pugs are fawn in color. The fawn color can range from a very light cream to a medium cream to various shades of gold, or have silver undertones on a cream background. Tones of very light orange or even subtle hints of red are sometimes noted in this most common color, but a rich cream color is preferable. What Colors Do Pugs Come In? Color & Pattern Picture Guide To be a rich, golden fawn evenly ticked with silver guard hairs. Undercolour to be pale blue/grey carried down to the skin. Belly fur to be creamy silver. Top colour to be even carried well down the sides with clear differentiation between belly and top colour. Any tendency to sootiness or greyness of the top colour to be penalised. Fawn Amber is a very light Fawn with silvering and red eyes—basically a light Silver Fawn; no one has these now that I know of. They were around a long time ago before we had the Silver Fawn imports in 1983. Silver Fawn are what we imported in 1983 from England, and I brought back two of them in May of 2004. They have red eyes and are a rich bright fawn/orange with lots of silvering.
